BOSTON LATIN SCHOOL

Class of 2007

Ms. Kelley's Address

Prize Night 2007

Traditionally Prize Night has been the perfect opportunity for the Head Master to speak to the members of the graduating class in a more intimate setting. I would like to take this time tonight to share some of my thoughts with all of you.

When you first entered here and each year thereafter, I exhorted you with the following mandate: Look to the left of you; look to the right of you; I expect you to support one another towards your goal of crossing the stage in June of 2007.

Imagine that auspicious date is now upon us. I would like you to reflect upon how you arrived at this point and provide a sense of closure for those who have helped you toward this milestone.

Take a moment to consider: Your masters, the administrators and the support staff who challenged you and guided you and demanded the best out of you. They deserve your thanks.

Your families, who exalted in your successes, listened to your stories and mopped up your tears. They deserve your thanks. Your classmates, who endured the growing process, suffered through the learning process and shared your secrets. You need to thank one another.

Annually, I try to decide on what I should focus my remarks or what memories stand out about the graduating class. It took the Class of 2007 a while to convince the masters and me of your worthiness and it also took time for you to convince yourselves, but I have come to recognize how fine a group your class is. At the Senior Prom, I watched you greet one another with genuine affection, one very good example of what you have learned. You have fought your battles; endured moments of grief; risen to the challenge of adversity and turned it all into triumphs.

By now you should realize that magic is what makes this school so unique; it is a quality hard to quantify but easy to recognize. I think this concept resonates both within and outside our community, because so many people ask me what is it about the Latin School? All right, how do you define "it?" I know in my heart that BLS is a very special place, made more so by all of you. That was well recognized by the Class of 1957 when you hosted them on the occasion of their 50th reunion in early May. They saw themselves in you--just 50 years younger. They were not the smartest group; they were not the upstanding pillars of the community but they do truly love the school, a lesson learned long after their leaving on graduation day. What makes your class unique is that you have learned that lesson much earlier on. You get "it" now. You have worked harder, soared higher, learned better and appreciated sooner how special this school is.

During your time as members of the student body, you have heard me speak often of the history, tradition and legacy of the Latin School. Monday, you will become alumni, and join those gatekeepers of the three themes that are intrinsic to the mystique of the school: loyalty, fidelity, devotion. To focus there for a moment, let me share what I expect:

For loyalty, I exhort you to adhere to a strong moral code whenever you must make a choice, bearing in mind that others may seek the easy way out, the safe choice. Yours must be the honorable way.

For fidelity, I expect you to be true to your Alma Mater; guard her and be vigilant. This Monday at our sunset graduation your dream becomes a reality, you join a very select group; those who have persevered, stayed the course and finally triumphed.

For devotion, I demand your commitment to ensuring that the school's tradition of excellence, history of opportunity and legacy of leadership are never subsumed by those who seek mediocrity.

This tapestry of traditions (loyalty, fidelity, devotion) is woven into the fabric of the Latin School--a heritage relevant to the 21st century. That is your lifetime. If you take no other concept with you into the future, please know that you are, and always will be an integral part of the magic of the Latin School. The alumni know it; the masters know it; I know it. Whether we are talking overtly or covertly, you all take great pride in the fact that you are "Ladies and Gentleman and Scholars" of the Latin School. People sit up and take notice. They think you are special but they do not know why. Can you explain to yourself or to me why you feel that way? Perhaps because there is an enduring sense of pride that never falters across the generations. It is an instinctive understanding that you belong to a corps of academically talented graduates of the nation's oldest school.

You all share a common bond and you have the tools to be successful. You will change the world and in the not too distant future, you will be responsible for the running of this institution. You have learned lessons about critical thinking, time management and organizational skills plus the need to help others, to affect society because much has been given to you. You need to understand that this school must not simply survive but truly thrive through its 375th in 2010 and well into its 400th year in 2035. That is an awesome responsibility, a legacy for an entity that began 372 years ago.

You are solely responsible for the well being of this school. Guard it zealously. Ensure that it continues to offer Boston's children from many different backgrounds an opportunity for upward mobility, a chance to share the magic.

Let me conclude by referring to the Mission Statement in suggesting--may all that Boston Latin School has done help you to attain success in your educational advancement, to develop a sense of public conscience and to realize a happy life worth living.

Use what you have learned for good. Create your own magic. Return and preserve this "special" institution. I expect nothing less! Since you and I are leaving together, I ask you to heed my final request. Go forth, look often in the mirror and answer the question, "Have I made Ms Kelley proud?" Remember Estis ultimi; semper eritis ultimi.

Dedication

It has been nine years since Ms. Cornelia Kelley made Boston Latin School history by becoming the first female Head Master. For as long as Ms. Kelley's time has been with this school, she has made countless contributions, and a lasting impression. Ms. Kelley has served as a faculty member in both the English and Classics departments; she held the position of chair of the Classics department, and she also served as Assistant Head Master. In total, Ms. Kelley has served the Latin School for 27 years.

During her esteemed tenure as Head Master, Ms. Kelley oversaw many monumental changes in the academic structure of the school, as well as the physical school itself. Some of the several significant changes made to the school in the past few years have been the construction of the new wing of the school entirely devoted to the arts, the renovation of existing facilities and upgrading of school technologies, and, perhaps most prominent of all, the school library. The Harry V. Keefe Library-Media Center was built in the space of the old cafeteria, becoming the most advanced school library in the world. Ms. Kelley has worked hard to raise money for the school, and has also kept the school at the top in terms of curriculum, making Boston Latin School recognizable at both a state and national level. An additional incredible fact that many students may not be aware of is that in the past nine years, Ms. Kelley has changed 80% of the faculty, and 25% of the current faculty are BLS graduates, proving that there is indeed something in the water at the Latin School that keeps us all coming back.

From the moment each and every one of us met Ms. Kelley, we may have been intimidated by her formal and stern demeanor, or simply by her firm demand to "look to the left look to the right," telling us she wanted all of us to be there at graduation. It is very difficult to imagine how many years have passed since the Class of 2007 was sitting in the seats of the auditorium, hearing Ms. Kelley speak those intimidating and sincere words. Since the moment each of us has entered the Latin School, we have each had our own personal experiences with Ms. Kelley. We have learned of her encouragement, her sense of humor, and her excellence in holding the position of Head Master. We will always remember seeing Ms. Kelley making her morning rounds, greeting all students and faculty while walking briskly in her forever-impeccable outfits. Even in a school with such a high volume of students, Ms. Kelley never fails to make each student feel noticed, and for all of us who had our "Lunch with Ms. Kelley," we will never forget her heartening words and her fluffy decorative pillows.

Perhaps above all of her innumerable contributions to the school is Ms. Kelley's tangible faith in all of us, and her high hopes for the future of the school. Regardless of whether or not we want to remember the words, "Will Ms. Kelley Approve?" the phrase has been etched in the minds of each and every one of us, and that truly means something. Our BLS bumper stickers, our class rings, our purple combination locks, our precious agenda books; these memories will always remind us of Ms. Kelley, and all she did for our school. As Ms. Kelley always says, "There is something magical about the Latin School." You, Ms. Kelley, are a defining part of this magic, and we would like to sincerely thank you for all that you have done for this school, and all that you have done for all of us. The Head Masters of this school for years to come will have some very large, very stylish shoes to fill.

Boston Latin School CLASS OF 2007

Hannah Kirschbaum

Activities: Archery, Saturday Success School Tutor, Contributing Argo Writer

Goal/Dream: After college, I want to be a criminal defense lawyer. I don't want to be one of those grouchy, over-worked, over-stressed, and under-paid lawyers; obviously, a great amount of work will be involved if I want to be a successful lawyer and I'm willing to do that. But what I want most in life is to have my family and friends with me and to be happy with my life and the way things go in my life.

Quotation: "You have to fight for what you want, for what you deserve, for what is right, and for those you love. Never give up on anything you truly want in life. Life is a struggle. But it's worth it in the end."

Lili Kocsis

Nickname: 8 Mile (don't ask)

Goal/Dream: All I want is to find something to do that will make me happy for the rest of my life. I'd like to travel to the most remote corners of the world, and to see and experience things that will benefit me later on. When I'm old, I want to look back on my life and accomplishments with pride, having brightened but never burdened the lives of others with my existence.

Quotation: "Character is higher than intellect. A great soul will be strong to live as well as think." - Ralph Waldo Emerson "Lunchables are a rip off." - Lili Kocsis

Mike Kolton

Rebecca Lamothe

Nickname: Becks
Activities: Gospel Choir, Bible Club, Amoji, Anime
Goal/Dream: I will look back on the years at BLS as the years in which I started to speak, the years that started me on the path to finding out who I am- a task that will take a lifetime. Years from now, I will probably be far away from here, in a country where anything below fifty degrees will be considered cold- and not because of global warming, found an occupation in the field of medicine that I full enjoy. My goal isn't to "make a difference", since that's going to happen anyways- every one makes a difference, somewhere, sometime. What I want to do more than anything is to give back to life as much as I can to make up for all it has given me.

Megan Lampron

Nicknames: Meg, Lampy

Joshua Li

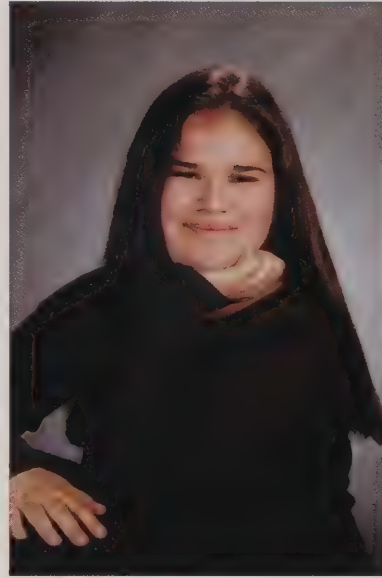

Nicknames: Josh, Joshywashy, Joshypoo, Hijoshli, Fluffemut
Activities: Bible Club Member
Goal/Dream: For Josh, the meaning of life revolves around surrendering his will to the will of God. At this point in time he thinks his Calling is going to be for the revival for the youth of Japan, but he's not sure; he's just waiting upon the timing and confirmation of God. However, before he goes to Japan he must fulfill a required two years of ministry in China due to a promise he made to the Chinese revivalist, Jaeson Ma. He dreams to lead thousands of Chinese and Japanese youth to the Lord through his ministry.
Quotation: "As a prisoner for the Lord, then, I urge you to live a life worthy of the calling you have received." ~ Ephesians 4:1

Vanessa Lopez

Nicknames: Vane, Vanni

Activities: TAG, Fashion/Talent

Quotation: Life is a treasure that should be cherished. Through six years of BLS I have grown substantially. With lessons learned and dreams realized we go on to better things but it is important never to forget where you came from. With lives lost and dreams deferred we struggled through the worst but still managed to come up on top. With five years of complaining and wanting to leave, with seeing kids come in and out of school and potential being lost I am proud to say that I made it and I just have to congratulate all my fellow classmates for a job well done. There will never be another class like '07. Now to end with a quote: "I swear it sinks into the carpet!!!" and I never said it could sink into my skin, that would just be stupid!!!

Goal/Dream: To travel the world, and make a difference to at least one person, if not more. To live life like there's no tomorrow, and spend it with those that I hold dear.
Quotation: "Don't be afraid to try something new. An amateur built the ark. Professionals built the Titanic." - anonymous "Dream as if you'll live forever. Live as if you'll die today." - James Dean "Kind words can be short and easy to speak, but their echoes are truly endless." - Mother Theresa, the ladies, the gents, the 'family', and all those special people who have made these years at BLS so memorable. To the Class of 2007, we did it! See you at the reunion. ;)

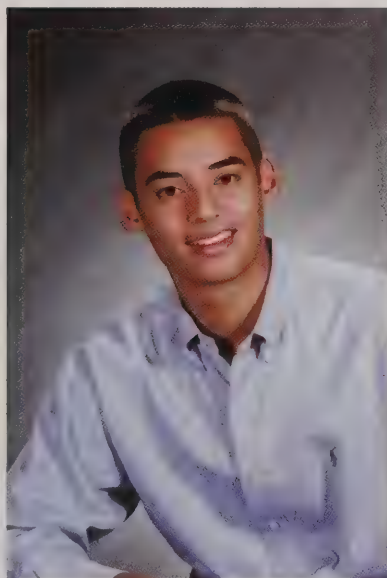

Yiling Ma

Nicknames: Galin, G-Ma, Garlic
Activities: Bible Club, Chinese Youth Initiative, Baseball, Science Olympiad, Business Society
Goal/Dream: Galin doesn't hope to be rich. He doesn't care how big his house will be, or how expensive his clothes will cost. Galin doesn't want to be number one. No barriers block his way, but many others will remain confined because they are without guidance. He hopes that eventually they will break these barriers and they will walk through life free from fear and doubt. Galin believes. He hopes that someday, the blind will see, and the weak will soar. In time, he hopes that you will do the same.
Quotation: "But those who trust in the Lord will find new strength. They will soar high on wings like eagles. They will run and not grow weary. They will walk and not be faint." - Isaiah 40:31

Adrian Madaro Moro

Activities: Mock Trial, Student Council, Band, Tutor
Goal/Dream: To become a lawyer, and to travel the world
Quotation: "Try not to become a man of success but a man of value." - Albert Einstein

Quotation: Our deepest fear is not that we are inadequate. Our deepest fear is that we are powerful beyond measure. We ask ourselves, Who am I to be brilliant, gorgeous, talented, fabulous? Actually, who are you not to be? We were born to make manifest the glory of God that is within us. And as we let our own light shine, we unconsciously give other people permission to do the same. - Marianne Williamson The tragedy of life is not that it ends so soon, but that we wait so long to begin it. - Anonymous Learn from yesterday, live for today, hope for tomorrow. - Anonymous

Quotation: "We are all raindrops, and BLS is the ocean whence we evaporate. Nobody who's been through this school can say that it hasn't affected them, somehow. I am no exception. Oh, fundamentally I am perhaps the same H_2O I would have been - and I would have evaporated, anyway, from another sea - but these currents have propelled me here. And right now I rise to the surface and vaporize, leaving behind the clingy salt, soon to be lifted by unfamiliar air currents until I finally reach some cloud. On that day I will see exactly which square foot of land down below to fall on and water - and then I will fall, quietly, accelerating, (but not too fast, thanks to air resistance); and I will achieve my purpose." ~ tharu
